The Original Magazine For Men Who Enjoy Dressing Like Women!

Editorial

Well, this issue is packed with goodies if I do say so myself. Please take special note of the layout on page 24. We hope you will enjoy this material as it is culled from our new instructional video, "The Art of Femininity." (See the catalog on page 44 for ordering information). Summer and I worked very hard to bring you an entertaining format that shows you all how some of us more experienced girls get our look together. Our model, Tammy, turned out to be a very striking woman indeed. Volume Two of this series is well underway and in the next issue we will show you some photo material. It's very hot stuff.

For so long, many of you have been asking for more detailed information on make-up, especially. We know that there are already instructional videos on make-up, but, they start out using models like Christy Brinkley. Now it isn't very hard to make her look like a woman. Tammy was another story altogether, as you'll see.

Moving right along . . . this year LaRey combined two of her greatest events into one big gala, The Battle of the V. I. P.s and the Miss Gay, L.A. contest. A sad note, the evening was dedicated to the talented and pixilated Joey Marchand, who had hosted the events for LaRey for years. We will all miss her quick wit and sparkling personality. The evening was a whirlwind of fashion talent and beauty. How appropriate that it should be dedicated to a person who embodied those things.

This all brings me to a point that I hate to have to mention. I hope it isn't even necessary to remind you that safe sex practices are of the utmost importance. We as men who love women's clothing are lucky that we get such a thrill out of dressing up. Dressing up is SAFE. We often present activities in our pages and fiction that do not represent safe sex. This is for entertainment value only! Not to be taken as a suggestion of what you should be doing at home! I love you all and I want you to take good care of yourselves.

*Keep it safe,
Kim*

Letters to the Editor

If you wish to write to Kim and possibly have your correspondence published, please address it to Kim Christy, C/O FEMALE MIMICS INTERNATIONAL, P.O. BOX 1622, Studio City, CA 91604.

Dear Kim,

Three days ago I picked up my first copy of F.M.I. and loved it so much I just couldn't put it down. I've read it from cover to cover about ten times now. All the letters to Kim, pictures, personal ads, and your great editorials! I didn't believe that there were so many TVs and TSs around.

I'm thirty-three and have been in the closet since I was thirteen. Recently I got a divorce because my wife couldn't live with a man who loves to dress as a woman. She should try to live as a man with a woman locked up inside of him for at least twenty years.

Well, as I said I love your magazine and your staff of writers. I can't wait until I pick up my next copy.

Thank you very much,
Heather Renee

Dear Kim,

My name is Enrico, I'm a 30-year old young man from Turin, Italy. I write you this letter for an uncommon reason I'm going to explain immediately.

It all began about two weeks ago, when I got an issue of "Female Mimics", the magazine of which you are the editor. I had never seen it before, because it is very difficult to find such magazines here in Italy, and so it was the first time I could have a look at it. So, I was leafing through the pages when I saw your photograph glancing at me and suddenly your beautiful face made me wonder when and where I met it before. I spent hours trying to remember this and finally I was really about to give up with the question. But I remembered a book, a photographic book I bought years ago, whose title was "The Queens," by George Alpert. Well, I went to my bookcase and finally I found it. I leafed again through the pages and . . . bingo! You were there!

"It is very difficult to find such magazines here in Italy."

I remembered how mad I was about you and how many times I spent on your pictures, daydreaming about how wonderful it would have been to meet you.

At the time you were looking so young, a blonde-haired beautiful girl with a sometimes cheerful and sometimes sad look in her eyes.

Now I look at you on the pages of "Female Mimics" and a mature beautiful woman is glancing at me with the same wonderful look in her eyes but still full of that charm that was so young and insecure at that time. I've been so happy at seeing you again and I hope to meet you sometime if I will be in the United States. I'm very happy too about your career and I wish you always the best.

I would like to have a photograph of you as you are now because I want to put it in the book where I saw you the first time. If you want to answer my letter, I would like to know something about you and your life and about your work. I'm a graphic designer and I think your magazine is quite good. I'm sorry for my bad language, forgive me. I'm very happy about having seen you again.

Your world's greatest fan,
Enrico

Dear Enrico,

My how that book haunts me. It's alright relly tho'. In a way,

I'm glad there are a few pictures of me floating around that are not of the purely purient variety.

Thank you for the wonderful fan letter. On the really dreary days that we all have once and a while it's letters like yours that remind me that life is a wonderful folly.

Love,
K.C.

Dear Kim,

I just got the new F.M.I. I really love to see so many really pretty TVs and TSs. I also like the letters people write. I figured I'd like to write also. I want all who are interested to hear and read about people like myself. It feels good to share my life and my feelings with people who want to hear them.

I wanted to be a girl for as long as I can remember. Before I was even in school I used to go into my oldest-sister's closet and put on her shoes. I'd use a crayon to pretend I was putting on lipstick.

I had another sister who was only 2 years older than me. I always walked to school with her and her friends. Her friends used to say I walked like a girl and say other things about me walking to school with the girls, but it didn't matter because I liked what they said.

During my very early years in school I started to really like how women always did things to themselves to look pretty. I guess it just built up. I looked at women and I noticed more and more the things they did to themselves and how they dressed. I also began to admire them. But I just accepted that I was a boy.

My feelings really changed in the sixth grade. A girl named Amy sat behind me and we became friends. One day Amy told me she thought I would have been a prettier girl than boy. I just said 'sure', but I also liked the idea. I thought about it a lot.

Amy didn't stop there. She started to say different things to me. Amy would tell me how she'd like to see me in a dress. She'd put her shoes next to mine and ask me if I'd like to try her shoes on. She began to tell me how pretty she could make me look as a girl.

Amy didn't know, but I really liked what she was saying to me. I began to think how I'd love to dress like a girl. The idea really sounded nice and exciting. But I was a boy and boys didn't dress like girls.

“I'd use crayon to pretend I was putting on lipstick.”

In the seventh grade Amy was in my class again and she started right away telling me what a pretty girl she could make me. I really liked the idea and I was really curious. I began to try on my sister's clothes. Not only that I had on girls' clothes excited me, the idea of actually being a girl, or to think about being a girl was a very strong feeling. A feeling that felt so good. It wasn't long before I was dressing up from head to toe. I loved it and I did it every chance I had.

Amy still kept telling me how pretty a girl I'd make. She kept her feelings quiet and I really liked what she said. But the whole time Amy was really serious. She really wanted to see me dressed up like a girl. She was sincere and she wasn't fooling around.

By this time she was asking me if I would come over to her house so she could dress me up. I really wanted to, but I was afraid it would get out.

Finally, Amy told me that her parents would be away for the weekend and she begged me to come over. After she swore that no one would find out and she'd never tell, I agreed to spend the whole weekend over at her house.

Friday came and I told my parents I'd be staying over at a friend's house all weekend. After school I went home with Amy. As soon as we got there she took me to her room and she gave me some of her clothes to put on. Next, she applied some make-up. Then she got one of her sister's wigs and put it on me.

Amy was so thrilled. I really looked good! Amy told me I looked better as a girl. I really liked what she did and I told her how I had been dressing in my sister's clothes and I told her how I liked it.

We went into the living room. I stayed dressed and we watched TV and talked. Suddenly, the front door opened and Amy's sister Sue came in with one of her friends. Amy was also surprised and asked Sue why she had come home. Sue said she changed her mind about staying away for the weekend. I just sat there and kept my mouth shut.

Sue and her friend walked into the room. Sue said to me that I looked familiar but she didn't know who I was. Amy said I was her new friend, "Debbie".

Then Sue asked why I had her wig on. Amy just started to laugh. I was so scared. Sue asked Amy what she was laughing about. Then she asked me what was so funny. I almost died. Amy then told me to tell her who I really was.

Amy then told Sue, "Remember how I told you how I wanted to see what John looked like as a girl?" Sue looked at me and asked me if I was really John. All I could say was 'yes'. Sue then asked why I let Amy do that to me. I said she wanted to and I wanted her to. Sue's friend Ann said, "But he looks so much like a girl." We told them the whole story.

Then they asked what were we going to do all weekend? We really didn't know. Sue's friend then said, "Let's see what we can do."

Then she added, "I bet we can really make a doll out of him and we can show them how good of a girl he can be." Sue started to like Ann's idea more and more, and they asked me if I was ready to really be make-up as a girl. Amy was all for it.

They took me to Sue's room. They took off all my clothes and Sue took out her electric razor and began to shave the small amount of hair on my body. Sue told Ann we're going to show him all the things girls do. Before, when I told them how I liked to dress up in my sister's clothes and how I really liked to, Sue asked me if I shaved my legs when I dressed up. I said no. Then Sue said, "Now you're going to experience it all."

They began to shave my entire body, I mean the little hair I had then. Then Sue ran a bath filled with perfumed bath salts for me. I was given a pair of panties and white pantyhose to put on.

They then sat me in a chair where they would work on my face. Ann said, "If we're really going to do this right, please hand me a tweezers." Amy questioned, "Your not really going to pluck his eyebrows? It will show when he goes back to school Monday."

Ann said, "We are going to do this right." and proceeded to pull out my eyebrows.

I was kinda starting to get scared but I wanted it too much to complain.

I sat there quietly while they applied make-up. When they were done they were more than satisfied with their work. They wouldn't let me see myself until I was fully dressed, but I could see the happy look of approval on Amy's face.

I was given a navy blue dress to put on, a necklace, a few bracelets and a pair of black patent leather shoes. They clipped on a pair of earrings, sprayed me with perfume and topped my head with a long straight brown wig.

Then they finally let me see myself. We were all amazed. When I saw myself, I couldn't believe my eyes. I loved it. But the feeling was so great. I felt this is the real me.

Sue said, "Well, 'Debbie' you look great." Ann said it was worth it. They all agreed I'd make a better girl.

To make a long story short, they decided we all should go out. That night we went to a drive-in movie. Then Saturday morning they decided since I had all weekend I should spend it as a girl. They dressed me up again. We went out for a ride and shopping and to get something to eat.

I really loved it and I felt uneasy at first, but with all their compliments, I adjusted easily.

Now I was dressing up every chance I could and all the way. I went over to Amy's a lot and spent a few more times there for the weekend. I loved dressing up and being a girl but I was so afraid I'd get caught. At the time I thought I was the only boy in the world who loved to do what I did. Many times I wished I could just dress and act the way I felt.

I began to buy female things for myself. Amy lost interest in a few years and I was still doing what I loved best.

Not until I was in the 11th grade did I ever even think about making it with another guy but one night I was at the Y.M.C.A. I had a few beers so instead of playing basketball with my friends, I decided to watch TV. Soon a young guy came up to me and we started to talk. He invited me up to his room.

We had a few more beers as we talked. He asked me if I had a girl friend. I said no. I told him girls were a pain in the ass. He asked me what I liked girls to do to me when I'm with them. I told him how I would like them to do everything but it was so hard to find girls like that.

He told me I looked tired and told me to lay on the bed. He then came over and helped me take my shirt off as he said he'd like to give me a rub down. He started to rub my back. It felt good but I also felt my cock getting hard. He asked me to roll over and I did. He began to rub my chest and he could see the bulge in my pants. He put his hand on it and asked, "What's this? You must be feeling

"They took off
all my clothes and Sue took out her electric

really comfortable?"

Actually, I did like it and I did feel good and I already wanted more to happen but I really wasn't sure what was going to happen. So I told him it felt really good. He said he could make me feel better if I wanted him to. I told him, "Don't stop. Go right ahead."

He undid my pants and slid them off to unveil my nylon (girls') pants. He asked me if I did this before. I said no and I also explained my pink panties and told him how I liked to dress like a girl. He said I could be his girl and he would make me feel really good. He also said to ask him to stop if I wanted him to. I was all excited and I wanted whatever he was going to do.

I told him to go ahead. He started to kiss my chest, then suck on my nipples. He kissed his way to my lips. He plunged his tongue into my mouth. I responded as we began to French kiss. His hand was on my swollen tool. He went down and sucked me off until I came in his mouth. He then French kissed me sharing my cum.

Soon I found my hand on his hard cock. I sucked it off until he came in my mouth. He told me to get him hard again as he lubricated my asshole. When he was just right he fucked me up my ass. I never felt more like a girl in my life. We made love a few more hours after that.

“He said I could be his girl and he would make me feel really good.”

Now I dressed up more and now I wasn't a virgin anymore. I only had a few more experiences with other guys.

I forgot to mention why, or at least one of the reasons I wanted that guy at the Y.M.C.A. It was when I was about 13 years old I camped out with 3 other friends. I was tired so I went to sleep early. I heard them come into the tent. They were whispering to stick it in his face. Soon I felt someone's cock rubbing my face. I pretended

I was asleep. I guess it was in me to want these things to happen to me and it excited me. But as I laid there, they took turns rubbing their cocks across my face. Then they started to rub my lips. I opened my mouth and in it went. I didn't respond but I let it happen. I really wanted to suck them off but I was afraid of the outcome if I did. But I really liked it and it made me begin to think about being with men when I dressed up.

I went out with girls and many of them would dress me up. A few took me out to eat or for a drive and they liked it. Others thought I was crazy for asking. One girl really got into it and bought me everything I needed to dress from head to toe. She took me out to bars, restaurants, and other places. She also made me do all the housework. I was coming home from work and right away I would change into the real me and on weekends I'd be a female for the whole time. She wouldn't hear the fact that this woman wanted men. I started to feel this strong attraction and need to be a female with a male. It made us break-up because I would secretly find my sex behind her back.

I now want to really come out. I feel I'd love to become a transsexual. I'm sending some pictures. I'd really love your opinion on what I look like and what you think.

Also I find myself changing drastically. When I look at pretty girls I don't get hard and think I'd like to be with them and make love to them. I find myself kind of jealous of them. I admire those pretty clothes, high heels, hair, make-up and wish I could dress like them everyday — all day. Also I find I look at males and think how I'd like to be with them. I get a strong hardon thinking about being with them and making all kinds of love to them.

I love magazines like F.M.I. I'd love to be with other TVs and TSs. I feel my strongest desires and most needs and wants are to be with other TVs and TSs. I mean the feelings and knowledge of each other really add to the ultimate wants, needs, desires and feelings to have the greatest non-sexual and sexual relationship.

So please, Kim, publish my letter and photos if you wish. I'd love to share my experiences and feelings with others.

Love to meet someday,

Dear Debbie,

What a wonderfully detailed letter. I really loved the part of your story when Amy's older sister and her friend come in and for those few moments you "passed" As for your pictures, I think they are a lot of fun. I think I prefer the spiked hair-do rather than the blonde one. Also, it all depends on what you are aiming for, but you could possibly get away with less make-up. I like the severity of your look, but don't obscure your best features.

Thanks again for a great letter. You sound pretty OK about the day-to-day changes that are happening in your life. Please write again and tell us how it goes for you.

*Love,
K.C.*

Battle of the WFs

Miss Gay LA

The theme this night was "Movie Magic." LaRey started the show off with a bang, as usual, with her own "Live" silent movie. No, LaRey, we don't think you look like Norma Desmond . . . yet. As usual, the event was held in the glamorous Mayflower Ballroom, in Inglewood, California. There was a board of well-appointed and celebrated judges.

Above: Serena Saunders and Kim Christy starlet Dana Douglas were on hand to help out with the entertainment and festivities.

On this page we see a selection of the casual wear that adorned both the Miss Gay contestants as well as the Miss V.I.P. contestants.

Battle of the WPs · Miss Gay LA

Above, both talent and beauty are represented. The high flying acrobatics of the Can-Can are set off by the exquisite tailoring of the leather outfit. Don't forget to wear a dog as an accessory!

Evening gowns and glitter abound whenever LaRey plans a little get-together.

No one's a loser who participates in such an evening as this. But some do win more than others. Congratulations to the new winners of the titles of Miss Gay L.A. and Goddess XVI for 1987!

The Art of Femininity Vol. 1

F.M.I. is proud to present the first in a series of videos designed with you in mind. We hope in this series to present both educational material for the budding TV and TS as well as provide entertainment for all.

In this first volume, Summer and Kim combined the best of their talents to bring you as much information as possible regarding make-up, dressing, walking and talking. We hope to be able to go into even more detail later about poise and presentation.

Below: our friend Tammy is Summer's guinea pig for all the basics of transformation. The long process begins with a very close shave and a thick layer of base make-up.

As Summer explained to us on the set: make-up and hair are really the easy parts of transformation. You can always get professional help for these aspects and once your hair and face is done you're set. The harder part is to act like a woman. You can't just do a few little tricks and consider it all done. You have to stay in the frame of mind that will keep your femininity intact. Now if you are a TS, that's great because you will have to adopt this frame of mind all the time anyway. The harder part is for the TV who goes in and out of the masculine and feminine roles. It all sure keeps you on your toes.

Above: The tools of the trade. A wide variety of tints, blushes, powders and paints are needed to complete a truly lovely look. Below: There now, doesn't that wig make you feel special?

ARE YOU MALE, HETEROSEXUAL, submissive, and interested in crossdressing? Does the thought of being forced to wear feminine clothing all of the time absolutely thrill you? Do you like the idea of being dressed in skirts and trained to mimic female speech and behavior? Do you dream of becoming totally feminized, in mind as well as body, without actually having a sex change operation? Would you give up the life and privileges of a man to become the obedient, pampered, crossdressed male wife in a marriage to a dominant, aggressive female husband? Do you know the meaning of phrases like — "petticoat punishment" — "corset discipline" — "forced femininity" — "sissy"? How would you feel if you had to dress completely as a female in every detail and appear in public before men and women who knew that you were really a man? Would you feel silly and foolish if you were made to wear a sanitary napkin in your panties? Do words like girdle, garter belt, nylons, high heels, lipstick and lingerie make you blush? If you find these questions interesting write and ask for a free copy of The Sissy Times newsletter. SASE required. See illustration. F572

The Model of Femininity

F.M.I.
Serialized Fiction
Part III

“Anyway, the point I want to make is that you ought to think of keeping it up. I’m sure that Elysee would take you on — between Tamara and me we could make certain of that. In fact, I’ve already talked to Tamara about it. Discuss it with her, and give me a call next week when you’ve had time to mull it over, okay?”

And discuss it we did. We also discussed getting married and, in fact, hightailed it down to City Hall before it was too late. Too late? Yes, because we decided that I would go for it, take a break from my writing and become a model. While I finished off my outstanding assignments, a matter of nearly a year, Tamara and I would perfect my looks; by the time we were finished, we reckoned it would look pretty silly for us to stand in front of a judge as man and wife.

I knew that breasts could be implanted, but I was determined to avoid any kind of surgery. We decided to opt for a course of hormone treatments, which would also improve my skin and muscle structure and thin my already manageable beard, as well as helping to prevent baldness, which would be disastrous in my new profession. We took an endocrinologist friend into our confidence, and he assured us that by juggling dosages we could grow me a pair of tits without undue impairment of sexual function. I drew the line at undue impairment of sexual function.

Naturally, we let my hair grow, and my nails as well. This was hard, since I had always gnawed at them, but the thought of a quarter of a million dollars a year was incentive enough to keep my fingers out of my mouth. It was surprising how quickly the hormones worked. Before we knew it, cleavage taping was out the window and I was in a B-cup, which is where I wanted to stay. My complexion got clearer and clearer and my skin softer. I may be imagining it, but I think my hips and backside improved as well.

Tamara and I enjoyed the process enormously, I shared her clothes and makeup, and we screwed and sucked and loved every spare moment we had. If she hadn't had to go out to work I never would have gotten my writing done. As it was, I spent what seemed like hours each day getting dressed and made up and staring at myself in the mirror. As much as I had come to love wearing girls' clothes, I found that once my breasts had developed I also enjoyed just sitting at the typewriter in a man's athletic shirt and a pair of brief panties. I had actually gone as far as setting up a mirror where I could see it from my desk; I got a thrill from glancing over and seeing the roundness of my breasts through the low armholes of the undershirt and, needless to say, hairless underarms as I moved my slim arms. Just as much of a kick was to look down and see the crotch of my panties, how beautifully it curved under, smooth and flat.

The tactile pleasures were great as well. The feel of my hair down my back; the feel of long nails scratching a shapely leg through thin pantyhose; the feel of silk on bare skin. Sex with Tamara was so greatly enhanced by this increased feeling that I recommend all men to try at least shaving their legs just for the sake of their love lives.

After a time, my modeling career began. You'd think that modeling would have been the perfect job for me: Being a girl was and remains a novelty, and what could be more feminine than the latest fashions? Well, yes and no. Remember: it is awfully hard work. After a ten-hour day of changing dresses, slacks, blouses, shoes; of having my hair and makeup altered for each outfit; of aching feet, hot lights and bad coffee: After all that I'd just want to get home, have a bath and a drink and take a nap. I had to watch what I ate and be very careful about my skin and nails.

On the other hand, the financial compensations were more than adequate. I wasn't yet earning as much as Tamara, but between the two of us, we weren't exactly wanting for anything.

I'm writing this three years after that week in the Caribbean, in fact on our wedding anniversary. We are going out to dinner to celebrate, and

I've just come back from shopping for something new, something festive. On my way home I stopped in for a manicure — my nails never look as good as when they've been done by a professional — and I've already slipped out of my skirt and blouse. I'm sitting here in a champagne colored silk teddy trimmed in lace. Now that my breasts are where I want them, it's nice not to have to wear a bra all the time (although there are thrills in seeing bra straps through a fine cotton blouse).

“We reckoned it would look pretty silly for us to stand in front of a judge as man and wife.”

My shopping trip was not an easy one. So many of the dressy clothes this season have long sleeves. It is a great look, and Tamara and I have a few things of that kind in our closet — things like cashmere jump suits, drapery but revealing. But for a real special occasion I still prefer to show my arms (and those bare underarms). I had to try on about two dozen outfits, including some of the new short skirts. In fact, I bought one of those for a future occasion, but what I found for tonight was a really spectacular strapless affair in dark rainbow silk lame, with a skirt coming just to the knee and a deep slit at the back. It shows off my arms, my breasts, my legs, everything, and it was well worth the $1500 it cost me. Sapphire drop earrings (naturally, I had had my ears pierced as soon as we'd decided that I'd go into this line of work) and a sapphire and diamond choker were all the jewelry I'd need. I'd wear smokey stockings and that famous garter belt. Nowadays, Tamara and I take turns wearing it when we go out. Black lace bikini panties will be fine.

After three years of intermittent hormone treatments (plus just a couple of electrolysis sessions), my face is now completely beardless, so I can make up just like any other girl, or even go without makeup altogether to give my skin a rest. Tonight, though, I'll use some deeper colors, to balance the lavish tints of the dress and the sapphires.

My next step is to take a shower (no time for a bath) and run a razor over my underarms. I do this every day, because I find stubble there particularly unpleasant. One of my private jokes is to continue to use a man's cologne, Grey Flannel. I get lots of compliments on it too!

I pluck a few stray hairs from my brows (which I've thinned out a little more since that first day — the heavier Brooke Shields look is not really for me) and apply a drop of moisturizer. I hear the key in the lock, and Tamara comes in, tired after a day in the studio. She too showers and we hop right into bed for a little loving. My pubic hairs have been trimmed short, and my bikini line has been waxed. This is because, believe it or not, I have been doing lingerie and bathing suit ads; some girls shave their crotches altogether because advertisers prefer not to show pubic hair beneath sheer panties, but this I cannot do: The hair provides good camouflage, just in case I have to strip down completely. I try to avoid this, but if there is no way out I just keep my legs together and get into the new clothes fast so that no one will see what is tucked away for safe keeping. Anyway, the shorter, sparser pubic hair makes sex feel different — I don't like this as much as I like all the other tactile changes, but I love the way it looks.

Time to get dressed now.

First, I finish my makeup and brush my hair. Then, I step into my panties and don my garter belt. I draw ultra-sheer gray stockings up my smooth legs and fix them to the garters. No bra tonight; the new dress is so revealing that even a strapless brassiere would show, but the snug bodice, lined in satiny silk, cups my breasts, feeling cool against

Millie's Helpful Hints

I am back, at last. It feels good to sit down with the friendly word processor again, to prepare another column for our favorite magazine, F.M.I. My regular job kept me away for awhile, with a very busy winter and spring, and now I'm more than ready to do some fun things, like write this column.

I promised Kim I would include some discussion of sizes, and how to determine a proper size, so here it is. I think the best way to determine your size is to study the size charts in catalogues like Penney's or Sears, and to measure yourself, following the directions in the catalogue. This is better than trying to convert men's sizes to women's sizes, or for me to reprint a size chart. I have found that catalogue stores have different size charts, so if you are ordering from a catalogue, use the chart provided (if there is one) in the catalogue. It's probably more accurate for the particular garments sold by that company than a size chart that I might print for you. I usually wear a size 16 blouse, but might have to get a size 18 from some catalogues. Believe the size charts and measurement instructions, and follow instructions as carefully as you can. Then, if an item is too large (Ha!) or too small (more likely), you can always send it back for a different size. I've had to take items back to Penney's, and I got my money back with no argument at all.

Don't be concerned about something fitting a little loosely. It is a popular style today, and you want to look in style. You will attract less attention. Also, a somewhat loose fitting blouse or sweater will help camouflage large shoulders, or a too-prominent bust

Shoe sizes are interesting. Women's shoe sizes are not the same numbers or widths as men's. I wear a size 11-wide man's shoe, which equates with a 12-medium

*“I thought Playboy was better before they started showing

woman's shoe. I can sometimes fit into size 11-medium woman's sandals, because they allow some room for my toes. Pumps which are closed at the toe must be in size 11½ or 12 for me, or else my feet will not fit. You will find that you have to buy women's shoes that are one size larger than your men's shoes, and medium instead of wide, or wide instead of extra-wide, etc.

Penney's catalogue has a few styles of women's shoes in 11 and 12, and (as I've mentioned before) you can order by phone, and pick up items at the local store two or three days later. This can be very convenient, and you don't even need a post office box.

Two other places to order large size women's shoes are:

Tall Gal's Shoecraft Corp.

P. O. Box 129

Accord, Massachusetts 02018

Hill Brothers

(I have lost their address, but will include it in my next correspondence)

Write for their catalogues. Both are fine companies.

Most of the styles in Shoecraft and Hill Brothers are “ordinary”. By this I mean you won't find four-inch or five-inch heels in these catalogues. If you want something more exotic, try Frederick's of Hollywood. They have a few very high-heeled pumps in sizes 11 and 12. Their catalogue can be ordered from P. O. Box 229, Hollywood, California 90078-0229. Send $2.00 for the first catalogue. By the way, Frederick's has improved their catalogues, and is using more photographs instead of drawings. Your $2.00 will get you the equivalent of 72 pages of gorgeous pin-up pictures. (I guess I'm old fashioned. I thought Playboy was better before they started showing everything.)

I guess many of you liked my suggestion last time for realistic boobs, made by using regular old foam-rubber falsies, trimming off most of the foam from the back side, leaving just the smooth front of the falsies, and then using water-filled ballons to give weight and bounce. I have further reduced the amount of water

I put in the balloons, down to only four ounces each. I use a postage scale to get them close to the same weight. And I use a "jumbo" size balloon that holds four ounces without having to stretch, yet is sturdy enough so I don't worry about leakage. I'm glad to share a great idea like this one. If any of you readers have ideas to share, send them in, and I'll include them in a column.

I sometimes like to pad my hips a little. My measurements are such that I can use a little more "breadth" to my buns. I have purchased the "Fanny Former" from Frederick's of Hollywood, item #5315-7, for $15.00. It is an elastic panty-girdle with two foam-rubber pads. Wearing it as it came from the store was OK, but the pads were a bit too extreme. They added obvious bulges. I have improved on the "stock" item by trimming off about half of the foam, trimming from the back side in order to leave a smooth front side to the pad. I then place the pads in the "hollow" cheeks of my buttocks, in order to round them out. This placement is not the same as the pockets built into the panty-girdle, so I ignore those pockets. The objective is to round out those male buttocks, to make them look more like female buttocks. It works fairly well. I have to wear several layers of panty, panty-hose, and panty-girdle in order to mask the edges of the foam pads, but it works especially well with pants.

This brings me to another subject, which is the appearance of the crotch area. Judging from my mail, I suspect that this is something that many of you readers would like to improve. I have had reasonable success by pressing the male genitals down and back between my legs, and then wearing the several layers mentioned above, that is, panties, panty-hose, and one or two panty-girdles. Panty-girdles should not be "high-cut" style, because the elastic around the leg opening is important in keeping everything in place. It's a bit uncomfortable when a testicle slips out from all this elastic. Whenever this happens, I have to pull all these garments down in order to get everything back in place, and then pull all the garments back up. If I'm also using hip pads, that's two more things to get rearranged properly. I know it's not a perfect solution but it's the best I've found. The front view is just fine. A careful observer, looking at me from the rear, might notice a little extra bulge, if I'm wearing tight-fitting pants. The male genitals, pushed down and back between my legs, can't be altogether hidden, even with two panty-girdles on.

The best solution is to not wear tight pants, or shorts, or bathing suit, as one writer wants to do. I recommend loose pants, especially with pleats in the front. These should be more flattering to our figures. My hips are about 37 inches. Many women my height would love to have 37 inch hips, and very few of them do. That's the problem. My hips are not the size of a normal, ordinary-looking woman's hips. Since they are "better" than average, I might attract attention. If I want to "pass", I don't want to attract attention, and therefore I will wear hip pads and loose fitting pants or skirt.

That's all for now. Remember, send any ideas you want to share to Millie's Helpful Hints, care of this magazine. I'd love to hear from you.

skirt of the dress is draped on the bias, it is tight across the hips and flat across my feminine crotch.

My shoes are extravagant lace pumps from Susan Bennis/Warren Edwards, exquisitely made in Italy. As I insert the studs of my earrings through my pierced lobes, I catch sight of Tamara, who is also just about finished dressing. She is in a wonderful silver and black mesh camisole over a double skirt — black tulle over buttery leather. It is just possible to make out Tamara's nipples through the mesh top; I've worn it myself, and I know how eye-catching it can be. We keep pretty much to ourselves and frequent fairly genteel restaurants, so don't have many problems with men trying anything with us. Still, even at La Cote Basque you find people sizing you up — both men and women incidentally, which is something I never realized before I was on the receiving end of those looks.

Tonight's dinner is at one of the "in" restaurants, Arcadia, which is within easy walking distance of our apartment, so we slip into little jackets and go out, arm in arm. We walk down Madison Avenue, checking out the store windows as we go. One of the things I always check out in windows is my reflection, and this evening it has never looked better. Tamara is still more beautiful than I, but not by much. And I have longer legs.

Two women dining together are often mistreated in restaurants, but when they are both well-known models and therefore highly decorative they get royal service and the best tables. The owner takes our wraps and escorts us to our table, where we find that the house has treated us to a bottle of champagne (not Dom Perignon, but a good vintage bottle nonetheless). When I couldn't afford champagne, no one did this, but now that we drink what seems like a case of the stuff a week . . . Oh well, who said there was justice in the world?

Suddenly I feel Tamara's hand under the table. Her nails creep up my stocking; then when they get to the top I can feel her slipping something under the garter strap, something like a piece of paper. "An anniversary present for us, Tom," she whispers in my ear.

I cannot resist getting a look at this; we've never gone in for presents, at least not on special occasions. So I make for the ladies' room, hike up my skirt and retrieve the folded note. The paper is headed "Judith Macmillan, M.D., Obstetrics and Gynecology", and it begins,

"Dear Ms. George,

"Congratulations are in order. The tests we just ran on you have come back positive, and I am pleased to inform you . . ."

I am stunned, then pleased. We had sort of talked about having a kid, but I didn't think we'd come to any decision. I guess we had! I look up and find myself facing the ladies' room mirror. I see a well-known fashion model in a super-duper evening dress, with a swelling bosom and seductive shoulders and arms. No sign of maleness greets my gaze; fine features, slim limbs, alabaster skin. I reach up to run my fingers through my shining hair and see the hair-free underarm contouring down into the well-shaped breast.

And I'm going to be a father! It is all the more piquant as, needless to say, everyone assumes that Tamara and I are lesbians. What they'll think now, I don't know. All I do know is that this kid must never know that I am a man. That should be easy enough to arrange.

I return to the table beaming, pick up my glass and propose a toast: "To us, to our baby, and to the baby sitter we'll have to hire for our next anniversary celebration!" If we hadn't been in a public place we would have kissed passionately, but as it was I had to content myself with slipping off one shoe and running my stockinged foot up Tamara's calf. I could feel her reaction.

She reached across me to borrow my bread and butter, and her forearm brushed lingeringly against my breasts. My insides began churning, and I said, "The hell with dinner —

COMING SOON IN F.M.I. Meet Sherrie O'Neal

let's go home!" We left a $100 bill on the table, reclaimed our jackets and grabbed a taxi. We were home in three minutes flat. As soon as we got in the door, we embraced and kissed deeply. Slowly, we undressed each other, leaving our expensive clothes in a heap on the floor. Still in garter belt and stockings, we made our way to the bedroom, where we finished disrobing. Tamara began kissing my nipples, and I ran my newly manicured fingers down her back towards her rump. Soon I felt that she was already wet; I was fully erect too, and we got into bed. The percale sheets felt cool against my bare back and Tamara was warm against my stomach.

At around midnight we looked at each other and simultaneously said, "Hey, I'm starving!" At Arcadia all we'd had was a roll and butter and a glass of champagne. We knew that the Odeon down on West Broadway was still open, so we called for a reservation. They were busy, but for Tamara George and me there was always a table. I taped up my cock, donned a soft-cup bra and put on a white sleeveless leotard. Then I eased myself into a pair of button-fly Levi's. A cotton knit Giogia Armani cardigan completed the outfit. I went to brush my hair, and saw in the bathroom mirror that I was still wearing my sapphire and diamond earrings. Not really right with jeans and penny-loafers. I removed them and replaced them with tiny pearl studs. My makeup had suffered considerably during the hours of loving, so I did a quick repair job on it. In a couple of minutes I was ready, and so was Tamara.

I kissed each of her breasts. I knelt down and kissed her cunt. I kissed her belly and said, "Hello, mamma."

She kissed each of my breasts through the leotards, through the bra. She reached under my cardigan and caressed my shoulders, running her hands down my slim upper arms, across my smooth underarms, and into my bra, where she gently cupped my soft breasts. She knelt down and kissed the fly of my Levi's, where my cock would have been, but which now was indistinguishable from her own. She bit my earlobe, pulling with her teeth on the pearl stud, and whispered into my ear, "Hello, papa."

Hand in hand, we went out into the night, two top models in search of a hamburger and fries.
